

INTERNATIONAL PROJECT COMPETITION REHABILITATION OF THE NATIONAL HISTORY MUSEUM OF ROMANIA

The Chamber of Architects of Romania is organising an international project competition for the spatial and architectural redesign of the National History Museum of Romania in Bucharest. The UIA has given its endorsement to the single-phase project competition, which is in accordance with the UIA-UNESCO regulations. The competition is supported by the Romanian Ministry of Culture and will be launched on 1 February 2016.

By enhancing its edifice and its urban context, refurbishing its collections and improving the quality of cultural services offered to the public, the National History Museum of Romania in Bucharest will take its place among leading European institutions as a contemporary museum complex. Thus the international competition seeks to find the best spatial and museological design for the new museum.

The winning project should present an refined architectural plan, which will exhibit Romanian national history for a 21st century public and bring new life to its historic home, the former Palace of Post.
