

RIBA International Prize now open for entries

Entries for the 2018 RIBA International Prize are now open and will close on 17 October 2017

The second edition of the RIBA International Prize is now open for entries. The prestigious award will be adjudicated by a stellar Grand Jury led by Elizabeth Diller, partner of acclaimed US firm, Diller Scofidio + Renfro, and includes Joshua Bolchover, co-founder of Rural Urban Framework, and acclaimed choreographer Wayne McGregor CBE who will bring his passion and unique perspective on architecture to the Prize.

The 2018 RIBA International Prize will be awarded to a building which exemplifies design excellence, architectural ambition and delivers meaningful social impact. The prize is open to any qualified architect in the world, for a building of any size, type or budget.

In 2016, the inaugural RIBA International Prize was awarded to Grafton Architects for their outstanding university building, UTEC (Universidad de Ingeniería y Tecnología) in Lima, Peru. The innovative 'vertical campus' structure was dubbed 'a modern-day Machu Pichu' by the RIBA Jury.

The prize brings international attention to the most inspiration and significant new buildings created across the globe but also to a range of the industry's leading talents, and the visionary clients that have commissioned these buildings.

If you have a project that you would like us to consider for a RIBA Award for Excellence and the RIBA International Prize, enter now. Full entry requirements are available on the awards entry system.
